Select Poetry.

From Peter's Musical Monthly.

AIN'T I SWEET ?

My good mamma, she feels so sad,
And says I am a flirt,
Because I go to promenade
All in my walking skirt;
She thinks I ought to be ashamed
To go out in the street,
With clothes, she says, all fursed and fixed,
To show my little feet.

We want the sanction of the gents
In all our style of clothes;
And yet I want to please mamma,
But more to please the beaux.
And ever thus you'll find it is
When ladies walk the street:
They'll try and manage some good way
To show their pretty feet!

Our bonnets now are but a "mite,"
Though "mighty" dear they cost;
Beneath our furbelows and bows
Our little forms are lost;
The tiny heels upon our shoes,
They are so gay and neat,
And solely made, you may be sure,
To show our handsome feet!

With parasol above me held,
And our "mamma" to see,
I fascinate the darling men
Where'er I chance to be.
"Oh! What a charming, lovely girl!"
I hear them oft repeat.
To make their hearts go pit-a-pat,
I show my pretty feet!

CHO.—Ain't I sweet, ain't I sweet?
I know I'm sweet, and have a right
To promenade the street,
And glad there is a style
To show my pretty feet.

Put out thy talents to their use—
Lay nothing by to rust;
Give vulgar ignorance thy scorn,
And innocence thy trust.
Rise to thy proper place in life—
Trample upon all sin,
But still the gentle hand hold out
To help the wanderer in.
So live, in faith and noble deed,
Till earth returns to earth—
So live, that men shall mark the time
Gave such a mortal birth.

History of the 49th Pennsylvania.

BY A. B. HUTCHISON,
Late Captain of Company 'C.'

Resume of the last—Resignations and Discharges among the Officers—Return of the Colonel and Major—The Second Battle of Fredericksburg—The Movements of Lee—The March towards Pennsylvania.

During our stay near White Oak Church, Col. Irwin and Maj. Miller, of the supernumeraries, returned to the regiment. We continued in the usual routine of camp, picket and drill duties, except that our corps was reviewed by the President, on the 8th of April, and we had one other review, by Gen. Sedgwick, who was now, and during the rest of his life, our corps commander. He was known in the corps as "Uncle John." No event of particular importance occurred in the regiment until the morning of April 28, when the regiment, in common with the army, moved again towards the Rappahannock. The Light Division, which had been organized, as was alleged, for particular service, on this occasion were directed to carry forty pontoon boats to the river bank, and in these our brigade were to cross the river at dawn, and attack the enemy. Our friends of the Light Division, not having contemplated such duties, were heard to indulge in profanity, a thing not unusual in either the Light Division, or any other. Our Irish friends of the 43d N. Y. were especially indignant, as they remembered our ancient feud, and swore that it was an outrage to ask the "flyin'" corps to carry canal boats for that bloody 49th. Nevertheless, the boats were taken to the river bank, and our brigade, now commanded by Gen. D. A. Russell, to whose memory every soldier of the 49th will pay grateful and honorable tribute, at the simple record of his name. The enemy was entrenched on the South bank of the river, opposite to the old Franklin crossing. They paid no apparent attention to us during the operations before daylight, for the movement commenced the day previous, and had continued during the night. The engineer corps, under command of Gen. Benham, were to row the boats across the river. Gen. Benham here tried to arrest our Gen. Russell, and was informed by him that he would not obey his arrest until after the fight. It is hardly necessary to say that Russell was not arrested then, or at any time.

Just before daylight, April 29, as silently as possible, the brigade got into the pontoon boats, forty men to a boat, and at a given signal, the forty boats shot out in line, in the fog and darkness, now just fading into dawn, across the Rappahannock. Up to this time all was silent, and everything was done in darkness, and by stealth. A moment afterwards, and the boats touched the other bank, and the men sprang upon the shore and charged up the bank. A volley from the rebel rifle pits was their welcome on the banks, and after a brief conflict, the rifle pits and the rebels were ours, and we were established on the South side of the river. Col. Irwin received a gunshot wound in the foot, and Capt. W. B. Freeburn was shot through the thigh.—Col. Irwin, although he remained in the position of Colonel of the regiment for a long time afterwards, was not much with us, as his wound prevented him from active service, and he finally resigned.—Capt. Freeburn died of his wound in about three months, after having greatly suffered from its effects. He was universally mourned, having been a most gallant and efficient officer, and as the support of a widowed mother, his death was a terrible calamity to others.

After we had got over the river, a pontoon was laid, and a portion of the corps crossed to us, and formed in line upon the old plain. The first corps crossed a mile or two farther down. The rest of the army, under Hooker, had gone to Chancellorsville. On the 30th, we remained quiescent in our camp, and were mustered for pay. May 1, we made no important movement, and the enemy gave us no particular trouble. On May 2, the remainder of our corps crossed to us, and the first corps, passing by us, recrossed the river, and marched to the support of Hooker. As yet we had no news from the main army, and our corps were now alone in front of Fredericksburg, and Marye's Heights. The enemy now began to show fight, and shelled our lines heavily, wounding some of our men, but we lost none killed. The shells ricocheted across the plain in fine style, and burst about us, sometimes even jumping over the river to disturb our wounded in the hospitals. As it grew towards evening, we advanced our lines, under the fire of artillery and skirmishers, and rested on our arms, in line, expecting to commence our serious fight in the morning. During the night, heavy firing continued on the right, and in the morning of May 3, skirmishing began, lively, along our whole line, and the enemy's batteries opened upon us with considerable vigor. One of our batteries endeavored to reply, but was silenced, and compelled to withdraw. After noon, we began to move towards Fredericksburg, and were again shelled by the batteries on the heights. The Light Division, and some other troops, then suddenly charged Marye's Heights, over the stone wall that was before so unsuccessfully assailed by the Irish Brigade, under Burnside, and through the little green field that had once before received, and now earned again, the name of the "slaughter pen," and carried the enemy's works, capturing their guns, and a large number of prisoners. Our old comrades, the 5th Wisconsin and 6th Maine, suffered heavy losses, and the corps generally, suffered largely, in killed and wounded, up to this time. We now moved rapidly up past Fredericksburg, and out the plank road towards Chancellorsville. When about four miles out, just as it began to grow dark, our brigade, leading, we encountered the enemy, and had a brief, sharp fight, which resulted in no particular advantage to us or the enemy, beyond showing us that we could not expect to go farther without driving out a strongly intrenched and numerous enemy.—This was Sunday evening, and we had heard Hooker's guns during the day, but had no news from the army. We lay down in line of battle, on our arms, once more, and waited for day again. It was bright moonlight, and beautiful. May weather. We found here a house that seemed to have been a post on the line of the illicit traders, as it contained quantities of various articles prohibited to the Southern people by the blockade, and most of Northern manufacture. During the night our enemy were very active in front, and we busied ourselves in getting some wounded who lay between the lines. The woods in front took fire, and the scene was one well in keeping with the business of war.

Our regiment, except the color company, were on the skirmish line, and were exposed to the enemy, but lost no men during the night. The enemy were busy building rifle pits. The early morning of the 4th day of May was moderately peaceful, but soon the enemy began to press upon us from the woods in front. Our regiment, on the skirmish line, found plenty to do, to keep the rebels in check, as they made frequent demonstrations. A battery posted on the level ground in our rear, firing close over us, as we lay on the ground, assisted us materially, and interfered very seriously with the rebels, who tried to make a barricade of the planks from the plank road. After about noon, it became generally known amongst the officers that something was wrong, and by 2 o'clock they knew that the enemy had re-taken Fredericksburg, and that we were cut off from our pontoons, and our left driven back towards the river above Fredericksburg. The men were kept ignorant of these facts for a time, but they were too old soldiers to long fail to see that we were being unusually crowded. The enemy attempted an advance about 3 o'clock, striking heavily just to our left, and were repulsed, then moved upon us, and were again driven back. In the midst of the trouble, two or three little children ran out of a house at the picket line, and across the field, under the fire, to us, and escaping unhurt, were sent to a safer neighborhood. Again the rebels attacked us, and made things lively for a short time, but gave way, and sought the shelter of the woods, under our fire, and that of the artillery. Still, though we held our lines firmly, and suffered but slightly, in comparison with our assailants, it was evident that our flanks were receding, and the enemy becoming hourly stronger.—As the sun sank, and was directly in our faces, they again attacked us, but we still held our lines. All of this long, uncertain day, we listened in vain for news from Hooker, or the sound of his guns and saw our lines compressed and forced into a horseshoe, with the enemy all around, in increasing force, and with the river in our rear, and no bridge nearer than at Fredericksburg, where it had just been saved from the enemy.

Our men were being wounded and captured, and killed, and we were so hopelessly outnumbered that all felt that we had only before a fight for safe retreat, not advance or victory. Soon as night came, we moved silently and rapidly to the rear, for Bank's Ford. Three companies of the 49th acted as skirmishers upon the flanks of our retreating column, under command of the writer, and reached the river about 11, P. M., when they rejoined the brigade. During the retreat we could hear the cheers of the pursuing rebels, and occasionally see the glitter of their bayonets in the bright moonlight. Arriving at the river, we formed our lines close to the banks, and awaited the enemy on one side, and the pontoon bridge on the other. The rebels began to gather around us, and we could see long lines of bayonets in the moonlight. Shells began to be exchanged, and all expected a struggle early in the morning; but at three o'clock we were over the river, and nearly all the army with us—the pontoons had been completed, and the troops were across, we, among the last going back, as we were among the first going over—I said nearly all of the 6th Corps, for of our sixteen thousand of five days before, five thousand had been lost in our ten mile journey to Salem Heights and back to the river—killed, wounded and missing was the record for the five thousand brave men, and on the morning of May 5th, just six years before these lines are penned, with all the disastrous news that came from the army at Chancellorsville—and the, to us, still more painful intelligence from our comrades of the 148th Penn'a. Vols., who had suffered so terribly in their maiden battle—with the rain drenching us in our camp in the dreary woods, and the feeling upon us, stronger than ever before, that somehow our enemies had defeated us, and destroyed thousands of our men, when we so confidently expected to conquer, we sat down in despondency and gloom, and calculated the chances of the future, in this, the darkest hour of the war.

The Power of a Word.

A mother on the green hills of Vermont, was holding by the right hand a son sixteen years old, mad with the love of the sea. And as she stood by the garden gate one morning she said:

"Edward, they tell me, for I never saw the ocean, that the great temptation of a seaman's life is drink. Promise me, before you quit your mother's hand, that you will never drink."

"And," said he (for he told me the story,) "I gave her the promise, and went the globe over, Calcutta, and the Mediterranean, San Francisco, the Cape of Good Hope, the North and South Poles. I saw them all in forty years, and I never saw a glass filled with sparkling liquor, that my mother's form by the gate did not rise up before me, and to day I am innocent of the taste of liquor."

Was not that sweet evidence of the power of a single word? Yet that was not half. "For," said he, "yesterday there came into my counting room, a man of forty years, and asked me:

"Do you know me?"

"No."

"Well," said he, "I was once brought into your presence, on ship-board, drunk; you were a passenger; the captain kicked me aside, you took me to your berth, and kept me there till I slept off the intoxication; you then asked me if I had a mother. I said I had never known a word from her lips. You told me of yours at the garden gate, and to-day I am master of one of the finest packets in New York; and I came to ask you to come and see me."

How far that little candle throws its beams! That mother's word on the green hill of Vermont! O, God be thanked for the mighty power of a single word!

A FACT FULL OF MEANING.—Here is the finest hit we have seen at the present popular distinction between religion and morals:

In a religious excitement in Boston, a person met a Christian neighbor, who took him by the hand and said:

"I have become a Christian."

"You are a Christian, then, all at once," said the other; "you profess to act strictly on Christian principles. I am glad of it. I congratulate you. Suppose we now have a settlement of our little accounts between us. Pay me what thou owest."

"No," said the new-born child, turning on his heel, "religion is religion, and business is business."

So the paper tells us. And what is there so wonderful about it? Is not the world full of such christianity?

A YOUNGISH man, who had seen better days, asked a gentleman for a "trifle," which would be most "welcome" to assist him on his return to his native place. He was told that the Stranger's Friend Society would help him to a passage to Ireland. "Och, sir," he exclaimed, "I'm not an Irishman at all, at all! It's quite a mistake your honor's making." The gentleman persisted in his persuasion that he was an Irishman, and appealed to his brogue. "Ha!" the man rejoined, "I was in a large mercantile consarn in London for many years, where they did a dale of business with Ireland; and as I was correspondin' clark, may be I caught the brogue that way."

—Why is an infant like a diamond?—Because it is a "dear little thing."

Odds and Ends.

—The favorite tune of the milkmen is said to be "Shall we gather at the river."

—What class ought never to die of consumption? Merchants with strong iron chests.

—Who was the first whistler, and what tune did he whistle? The wind—"Over the hills and far away."

—A Frenchman said of Shakespeare, "Ven you find anyzing you do no understand, it always is somezing fine."

—A verdant old lady in New Jersey thinks the ice crop will be good this year, because there hasn't been much frost to injure it.

—"I think our church will last a good many years yet," said a waggish deacon to his minister, "I see the sleepers are very sound."

—Modest people are now the soonest frightened. "I wonder what they will think of me," is not the inquiry of humility, but of vanity.

—Sentimentalists sing, "Give me a cot in the valley I love," but persons of a more practical turn would prefer a walnut French bedstead.

—A young man, who was crossed in love attempted suicide recently by taking a dose of yeast powder. He immediately rose above his troubles.

—"How odd it is," said Pat as he was trudging along on foot one sultry day, "that a man never meets a cart going the same way he is."

—A two-story house was being moved on rollers at Fall River, Massachusetts, last week, when a child was born in it. This is regarded as a "moving incident."

—A traveller inquired of a guide the reason why "echo" was always spoken of as "she," and was informed that it was because it always had the last word.

—"Leave you, my friend," said a tipsey fellow, clinging to a lamp post on a dark night; leave you in a condition not to take care of yourself, (hic) never."

—When a young man is about to settle down as "the husband of one wife," he should resolve never to make her jealous with his Wild Sallies and his gay Ann Ticks.

—A Unitarian church in Baltimore has had the following successional ministers: Dr. Furniss, Dr. Sparks, Dr. Bellows and Dr. Burnup.

Peace to its ashes!

—"Bridget, I told you to let me have my hot water the first thing in the morning." "Sure," replied Bridget, "and didn't I bring it up and have it at the door last night, as as to be in time, sir?"

—You can judge of a man's religion very well by hearing his talk, but you can't judge of his piety by what he says any more than you can judge of his amount of linen by the stickout of his collar and wristbands.

—If opinion has cried your name up, let modesty cry your heart down, lest you deceive it or at deceive you. There is no less danger in a great name than in a bad one and no less honor in deserving praise than in enduring it.

—People who want to establish a velocipede rink can call it by any of the following names: Amphicycletheatron, gymnacyclidium, velocipedrome or bicycle curriculum. No wonder some people are afraid of the machines.

—An eloquent orator proposes to "grasp a ray of light from the great orb of day, spin it into threads of gold, and with them weave a shroud in which to wrap the whirlwind which dies upon the bosom of our Western praries."

—A boy, whose general apperance betokened the want of a father's care, being asked what his father followed for a living, innocently replied: "He is an office-seeker by trade, but he dont work at it any more, since he was caught stealing."

—A young lady took her younger brother, a little boy of three or four years old, to church. The preacher was an earnest man, and spoke very loud. During the sermon she saw the little fellow in tears, and asked what was the matter of him. He sobbed out. "That man is hollering at me."

—A countryman who had never paid more than twenty-five cents to see an exhibition, went to view the "Forty Thieves." The ticket seller charged him seventy-five cents for a ticket. Passing the pasteboard back, he quietly remarked: "Keep it, mister, I don't want to see the other thirty-nine," and out he marched.

—A fellow, on being asked to write a testimonial for a patent clothes wringer, produced the following:—"I bought your clothes ringer, and am highly pleased with it. I bought a jag of wood which proved to be green and unfit to burn. I run the whole load through your clothes wringer, and I have used the wood for kindling ever since.

—An illiterate negro preacher said to his congregation:

"My bredren, woen de fust man, Adam, was made, he was ob wet clay and set up agin de palings to dry."

"Do you say," said one of the congregation, "dat Adam was made ob wet clay an' set up agin the palings to dry?"

"Yes, sar, I do."

"Who made de palings?"

"Sit down, sar," said the preacher sternly, "such questions as dat would upset any system of theology."

HOW MONKEYS ARE TAKEN IN DARFOUR.—Monkeys are pretty common, yet as all the family are remarkably cunning, has it ever occurred to the reader how they are taken? Pitfalls will take a lion, and the famished monarch of the forest will, after a few days starvation, dart into a cage containing food, and thus be secured. But how are the monkeys caught? The ape family resemble man. Their vices are human. They love liquor, and fall. In Darfour and Sennar the natives make fermented beer, of which the monkeys are excessively fond. Aware of this, the natives go to the paris of the forests frequented by the monkeys, and set on the ground calabashes full of the enticing liquor. As soon as monkey sees and tastes it, he utters loud cries of joy, that soon attract his comrades.—Then an orgie begins, and in a short time the beasts show all degrees of intoxication. Then the negroes appear. The few who come too late to get fuddled escape. The drinkers are too far gone to distrust them, but apparently take them for larger species of their own genus. The negroes take some up, and these immediately begin to weep and cover them with maudlin kisses. When a negro takes one by the hand to lead him off, the nearest monkey will cling to the one who thus finds a support, and endeavor to get off also. Another will grasp at him, and thus in turn till the negro leads a staggering line of ten or a dozen tipsy monkeys. When finally got to the village, they are securely caged, and gradually sober down; but for two or three days, a gradually diminishing supply of liquor is given them, so as to reconcile them by degrees to their state of captivity.

A PRUDENT old gentleman offers the following rules for self-government:

Always sit next the carver if you can at dinner.

Ask no woman her age.

Be civil to all rich uncles and aunts.

Never joke with a policeman.

Take no notes with you to a fancy bazar; nothing but "postal."

Your oldest coat, of course, for an evening party.

Don't play chess with a widow.

Never contradict a man who studies.

Pull down the blind before you put on your wig.

Make friends with the steward on board a steamer; there's no knowing how soon you may be placed in his power.

In every strange house it is as well to inquire where the brandy is kept, only think if you were taken ill in the middle of the night.

Never answer a crossing-sweeper; pay him, or pass silently and quickly on.—One word and you are lost.

Keep your own secrets. Tell no human being you dye your whiskers.

Write not one more letter than you can help. The man who holds a large correspondence is a martyr tied, not to the stake, but to the post.

Wind up your conduct like a watch, once every day, examine minutely whether you are "fast" or "slow."

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—An Iowa paper of a recent date gives the particulars of a romantic story which borders somewhat on the marvelous. Years ago, a Pennsylvania farmer loved and married a charming young girl that lived near him. After the marriage, time passed on, soon the farmer contracted a taste for liquor, which frequently got the best of him, which on one occasion ended by the husband stabbing her with a butcher knife. He left precipitately, supposing he had killed her, and hid himself in the west, where, in a few years, he became a prosperous and wealthy merchant. The wife, in the meantime, recovered, and after living alone for five years, married again. Her husband, however, died at the expiration of a year, and she also went to the west. Then the incredible part of the story appeared.—The par

School Superintendent.

The Convention of the Directors of Common Schools in Centre county met on the 4th inst. They elected officers and proceeded to business. The exhibition was not a very creditable one.—There were none, or scarcely one as it seemed, to be found among the controllers of the education of our youth, who knew how the business of the Convention should be conducted.

The Democrats had arranged everything secretly; but their President and Secretaries did not know how to go to work to carry out the programme.—They wanted to cut down the salary, because of their inborn stinginess and illiberality, whether it was likely to cost them any money or not, and even ORVIS was received with coldness by his vassals when he tried to tell them the truth, (not strange, perhaps, as they were not used to it.) After getting a motion through to elect a Superintendent first; this wise body reconsidered it, upon a motion of one of the minority, and then never considered it at all, but went on to resolve to fix the salary first. This they resolved should be done by a plurality instead of a majority, and began voting for four different sums, viz: $1500, $1200, $1000, and $800. As the vote progressed, it was evident that the contest was between $1000 and $1200, and the liberal-minded men who had voted $1500, seeing this, changed to $1200, and so carried it. The extremely stingy who voted for $800, as was naturally to be expected, did not have enough sense to know that their ammunition was wasted, and so $1200 carried by one plurality. The learned, eloquent, and dignified member from the Loop, it is true, protested against gentlemen changing their votes; but upon being informed that that practice had been sanctioned by the ages, and that it was generally conceded that men had a right to change their minds, he subsided with an expression of puzzled disappointment. As it is evident he was never far from his native Sink, we may inform him that, outside the Loop, it has always been customary to allow people to change their minds, and astounding as it may be to a Looper, even to change their politics and vote directly against their daddy's party.

$1200 being settled upon as a salary, to the disgust of the Democracy, to whom pet MAGEE had earnestly represented that he could be had $200 cheaper than before, the Convention proceeded to vote for Sup't. ORVIS was there as professedly the friend of Prof. HASTINGS, but the party-whip had been cracked, and Pennsvalley was a present witness, and ORVIS caved and rejoiced with Democracy over the defeat of his friend. Many of the Democrats had intended to vote for HASTINGS; but the party fiat put an end to such nonsense, and not one—not even HOFFER, one of our own Directors—dared to cast a vote for HASTINGS. And S. T. SHUGERT, our model of deportment, and epitome of respectable mediocrity—the gentleman to whom the purjury and fraud of WM. A. WALLACE and others at Philipsburg, and the votes of soft-headed Republicans in Bellefonte, once gave a brief term of office in the Senate—SHUGERT, the champion of HASTINGS, was missing. Democracy said, vote for HASTINGS if you dare, and SHUGERT did'nt dare. So he went to Lock Haven, and missed the cars next day by the purest accident. If any man's confidence was ever more cowardly or contemptibly betrayed we never heard of it. But Democrats have no independent opinions, no liberty of thought or action, when the party dictum has once gone forth.

We are glad Republicans are not such slaves to party, but that they are liberal minded enough to rise above it, yet those who listened to the oft repeated representations of Supt. MAGEE that he did not expect to get the vote of any man on political grounds now know that he never approached Democrats on any other and that they were deceived and betrayed.

The Directors from HARRIS and BURNSIDE and others of the Republican party who staid away to save the expense of their visit, and failed to perform the duties required of them by law, we think, in every case where their absence was not enforced by unavoidable circumstances, ought at once to resign and let men who are of some account be chosen in their places. There is no excuse for their dereliction in attending to this important duty. Even if MAGEE did pay the expense of the Democrats of Pennsvalley, and their bills here, we had a right to expect of Republicans that they would come out and do their duty, and would scorn to receive any pay from any Candidate. Let those men resign.—They are unfit for their trusts. Let it also be understood in every Township and Borough in which we can do so that no Democrat be hereafter elected to any office. We have plenty good men of our own [illegible] to fill all offices and those too who [illegible] can publish to the world the name of WM. A. WALLACE, of coffee pot notoriety, and one of the most corrupt politicians in the State—an unscrupulous leader, without conscience and without character—as one of the honest members of the last Legislature. And yet the name of P. G. MEEK is not in the list, and no reason is given why he is to be ranked with the State Guard's list of dishonest men. We want to know of what crime he has been guilty, that we can expose him. We also want to know what WM. A. WALLACE has done to entitle him to the confidence of the State Guard. In other words, we would like to know, and we ask the Patriot and State Guard for information, how much W. A. WALLACE, and others of the same ilk, paid to have their names published as honest men. Did P. G. MEEK refuse to pay the price, or submit to this system of black mail? We simply ask for information. Do your duty, gentlemen, as honest representatives of a free and untrammeled press should do. Give the devil his due. If P. G. MEEK is not a better man than W. A. WALLACE, and other members, who voted for all the corrupt bills, let us know it. If you refuse, it looks suspicious on your part, to say the least of it.

attend to their duties. As a rule the very best men in every community, now belong to us. Let those of our Republican friends, who were deceived this time, and induced to vote for an indifferently educated, and half-qualified political trickster, whose moral courage in performing his duties, is illustrated by his being afraid to refuse an applicant a certificate of qualification, yet secretly writing to a Board of Directors not to employ the teacher, to whose fitness he had testified, by his official signature; in preference to a gentleman of liberal culture, and of the attainments that the law requires in this officer. Remember this experience in future, and while we ask not that this officer be wholly selected for his politics, as now he is, we do expect that no one of you will ever vote for a Democrat until a competent Republican cannot be found. Our next election, in October, involves the choice of all our local officers, county, township and the Governor. Go to work now, and let us see that MAGEE be the last man the Democracy elect in Centre county. Scratch no ticket. Leave no stone unturned to defeat and destroy this infamous, treasonable, ignorant, illiberal, stupid and brutal faction that so long has cursed our county by misrule and disgrace.

Let us all go to work, shoulder to shoulder, hand to hand, and heart to heart. Let us bury out of sight, forever, anything like a factious spirit in our ranks, past individual wrongs and jealousies, in too many instances unfounded, and here and now resolve to work harmoniously and earnestly, as one man, for the success of Republican principles in all their purity, sublimity and grandeur. Let us not knuckle or cringe before the powers of hell and its co-adjutor, the Democratic party; but let us expose the wickedness, the blackness, the damnable character of that organization, until every professed christian, every patriot and every truly moral and respectable man will be compelled to leave the organization and enroll his name with the Republican party, the party that protected the "Old Flag," that saved the Nation, that perpetuated christian civilization in our land.

Will the 'Patriot" and "State Guard" Explain?

The morning after the adjournment of the Legislature we noticed, in the Harrisburg Patriot, a list of the corrupt bills acted upon by that body, together with the amount paid by the lobyists, or corporations, asking their passage and for votes in favor of them. That list, with prices, runs as follows:

Pipe Bill, (paid,)	$50.00
Railroad Bill, (paid,)	500,00
24 St. Market Bill,	50.00
29th Judicial Bill,	500,00
Railroad Bill, (paid)	100,00
Hong's Bill, (paid)	50,00
Cattle Bill,	200,00
McCullough's Bill,	100,00
Divorce,	50,00
Divorce—"Joseph's"—	50,00
Adair's Bill,	200,00
Railroad,	100,00
Cattle Bill,	300,00
Tax Bill,	200,00

A few days later, from the same paper, we cut the following, which purports to be a list of the "honest men" of the late Legislature:

The Harrisburg State Guard, gives the following list of "honest men" in the late Legislature, viz:

Senators: Wilmer Worthington, of Chester county; C. H. Stinson, of Montgomery county; R. S. Brown, of Northampton county; A. G. Olmsted, of Potter county; G. Dawson Coleman, of Lebanon county; C. T. McIntire, of Perry county; W. A. Wallace, of Clearfield; James L. Graham, of Pittsburg; James Kerr, of Butler; M. B. Lowry, of Erie.

Representatives: Speaker Clark, of Philadelphia; J. F. Chamberlain, of Bradford county; F. W. Ames, of Crawford county; R. B. Brown, of Clarion county; George F. Rea, and John D. Stranaham, of Erie county; W. H. Playford, of Fayette county; S. H. Brown, of Huntingdon county; John H. Walker, of Franklin county; John H. Longenecker, of Bedford county; and the veteran Thomas Nicholson, of Beaver county.

To this list we may add the names of Representatives J. R. CLARK, of Warren, and JAS. C. BROWN, Senator from Mercer, who made a good record, especially on the Taxbill."

Now, in looking over the Legislative Record, we find that of the above named "honest" representatives, every one, with four exceptions, voted for one, two, three, or more, of the above named bills, and two or three of these "honest men" voted for almost every one of them. Will the Harrisburg papers explain this? If these men can vote for measures that are notoriously corrupt, and still be blazoned forth as honest men, why are members, who voted against every one of these paid-for bills, left out of the list of "honest men," and thus placed among the "roosters" and "pinchers," who have disgraced, not only themselves, but their constituency and their State?

Moreover, in looking over the Record, we find that the member from Centre county did not vote for one of these bills, nor can we find his vote recorded in favor of any of the bills that these papers call "corrupt bills," and that were passed solely by the use of money. Politically, we differ with P. G. MEEK. His politics are of the CALHOUN States Rights school. They lead to treason, arson, burglary and crime of every kind. We despise his politics. Personally, there are many things in his character we admire. He is an earnest worker, and, in a business point of view, we believe, an honest man. Now, the explanation we want from the Patriot and State Guard is, why they did not include the name of P. G. MEEK in the list of their honest men, when the Legislative Record shows that he did not vote for one of the alleged corrupt bills? We desire [illegible] especially, to explain

Irishmen.

There is not on God's earth a more magnificent country, nor one more wretchedly governed than is Ireland—that beautiful island of the sea; compelled to support a church and priesthood foreign to her religious belief; her tenantry at the mercy of avaricious landlords; her people denied a fair representation in Parliament, and the merciless tax-gatherers eating up her substance.

What but blight and desolution could befall her? What be left her bravest and best but exile and death?

Yet, thank God, liberty progresses, and the entering wedge to Irish independence has been driven! The established church bloated with wealth, wrung from a people who spit upon its doctrines, and despise its priests, has been compelled to disgorge half of its plunder, and with the present bishops die their titles as Lords, and their rights to seats in the House of Lords, as representatives of a race oppressed for years—of a people who, like the Irish, had no rights the governing class were bound to respect.

As representatives of the black people of there States, we rejoice in Ireland's advancement, and lament that she has not gained all of which she has been despoiled—her faith, her soil, her independence, and her right to govern herself.

Yet cheer you, Irishmen. Push the advantage; move forward! And though you may be compelled to pass through the Red Sea to escape the oppressor, you will have the sympathy of the whole world to sustain you; and no people will spring quicker to the support of the flag of outraged Erin, than will the black men of this land; for they, too, are engaged in the same struggle—the struggle for equal rights.

And, Irishmen, we ask your sympathy in our transition. We need the electric speeches of your orators; the grand appeals of your writers; the enthusiasm of your rank and file, and the votes of you all. If in the hour of death, you would feel something of the dignity of the soul of man, and be able to say. I may not have done all I could, or as much as some others, yet, I never barred the progress of four millions of human beings from slavery to manhood. And as you do to us in our extremity may God do so to you.

"They who fight for freedom, undertake
The noblest cause mankind can have at stake;
Religion, virtue, truth, what e'er we call
A blessing—freedom is the pledge of all."

Progress of Liberty.

Protection vs. Free Trade.

There can be no question that the free traders are at this time making a prodigious effort to engraft their policy on the Government; and there is just as little question that their success would be a ruinous blow at the enterprise and industry of the country, both of which it would partially paralyze at once, putting a stop to the advance of manufactures, and greatly retarding the developement of all our mineral and other resources of wealth. The Free Trade, now calling themselves "Reform Leagues," are at work in New York, in the New England States, in the Great West, popularizing their ideas and maturing their plans for securing the co-operation of Congress and the Executive Department. This movement of the free traders has spurred the protective party to renewed exertions; the first demonstration having been made by the Pennsylvania Industrial League at their meeting in Philadelphia last week. It is, indeed, time that active measures should be taken everywhere by the friends of American industry to secure for it such protection against foreign competition as would place it upon a sure foundation. It is not prohibitory duties that are asked, for they would necessarily be temporary—but such moderate duties as will place the American workingmen and manufacturers upon an equal footing in all respects with the foreign, and continued as the permanent policy of the country. It is stable, not unreasonable protection that is wanted. Permanency in the protection afforded, whatever may be its standard, is what the industry of the country requires and demands. A fluctuating policy is always a ruinous drawback on commercial, manufacturing and mechanical interests. Under it the labor of the country, in whatever way employed, must suffer and droop. The battle now is for such a moderate scale of protection on the one hand, and for free trade on the other, the contending parties being the friends and enemies of American industry.

There should be no question as to which will succeed in such a contest; but to make success certain, the friends of protection should work without ceasing from day to day until they accomplish all they aim at. The Pennsylvania Industrial League, at its late meeting, embodied in their resolutions the following views:

First. That the developement of our own resources, and the firm possession of our own markets are much more important than foreign commerce; that by no other method can a durable resumption of specie payment be attained than by increasing home production.

Second. To accomplish this we must consume home made articles.

Third. Great establishments cannot prosper; small ones cannot spring up with a fickle and unfriendly policy.

Fourth. To promote their growth, Congress must announce, adhere to and steadfasdly act upon the policy of defending its own citizens.

Fifth. A protective tariff law should be passed, covering all imported articles.

Sixth. A new department should be created, to have in charge the tariff laws.

Seventh. Domestic protection is the best method by which to reduce the price of manufactured goods.

These views are, in the main, too sound to be questioned by any but the silliest old fogies of the Adam Smith school. The only man in any community, says the Miners' Journal, who is benefited by free trade and cheap unremunerative prices, is the non producing drone, or dealer in money. The legal rate of interest on the money he loans is 6 per cent. and the cheaper things are for him to purchase, and the more unremunerative to the producer, the better the balance in his favor at the end of the year—for the rate of interest for money does not vary, he lives cheaper, and his business is more likely to increase with pinched business men to deal with than when they are easy, business brisk, and wages good.

Workingmen, do not abate your efforts; but labor on steadily and unceasingly for the adoption by Congress of an adequate Protective Tariff to your industry.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THE Copperhead papers are finding fault with the appointment of Mr. Hagerty, a talented young Irishman who fought for the Union, to a foreign consulship. How the Democrats do love Irishmen!

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
May 7th 1869.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:—We are being repaid for our pleasant winter by one of the most backward springs ever experienced in this section. Although we are almost in the middle of May, fires and winter clothing are as necessary now as three months ago. As a consequence the spring trade is exceedingly dull, and our merchant's faces are correspondingly long. We regret to state that quite a number of failures have occurred in the last few months, in the District of Columbia, but without exception they seem to occur with the class doing "credit business."

Various remedies for the present stringency in the money market are proposed by different theorists, one maintaining that a Repeal of the Usury laws is all that is required to restore activity to commercial circles, another asserting that the securing water transportation, at low rates, to the City is the remedy, and that the putting the "Canal" in naviable condition is the only means of securing the desired end; and so on. It is quite likely that the "Canal" question will play a prominent part in the coming municipal election, which takes place on the first Monday in June, at least among the citizens of the Seventh Ward (Island). The Democracy true to their old style of warfare are getting up "Citizen's Tickets," "original Tax-payer's Tickets," &c., but if the Republicans keep strife out of their councils they are pretty sure of carrying the day. In the ranks of the Party here, however, are quite a large class, who were prominent at Seymour and Blair meetings last Fall, but who having discovered the error of their ways about the 14*th of October* are now prominent (?) members of the Republican party. Such followers after loaves and fishes are a disgrace to any party and deserve kicking out at the hands of any respectable political organization to which they attempt to attach themselves. Strife and dissention follow constantly in their wake and it is a source of wonder that political managers will so frequently ignore the claims of those who have stood the brunt of the conflict, in order to give place to these renegades for the sake of office, of whom it is well said, that they bring nothing to the party they join but weakness. We have no disposition to shut the door on those who honestly change their opinions, political, or of any other character, but a due sense of the proprieties attaching to these "conversions" generally induces gentlemen to take "back seats" until invited forward.

The opposition here have not learned the "coffee-pot trick" yet, it seems. Couldn't Wallace send them an apostle, or two?

We had the pleasure the other day, of meeting your esteemed fellow-citizen, Col. Theodore Gregg, who made so gallant a fight for the Legislature last election that the Democracy felt tempted to repeat the saying of Pyrrhus "another such a victory and I am undone." The Colonel is the hero of two wars, having commanded the gallant 45th during a large portion of their term of service, and when but a mere youth, served in the Mexican War, in the very regiment, if we mistake not, to which President Grant was attached at the time. How much more creditable would Centre county have made her record, had she chosen the gallant soldier, who faced death that the nation might live, to be her representative, instead of the man who never lost a chance to strike a blow at the hearts of those who sheltered him from danger. But we trust that the day of her redemption is near at hand. We cannot believe that any of our soldier-boys will continue to vote side by side with the men who called them "mercenaries" "hirelings" &c., who endeavored to deny them a voice in the councils of the State and country, who used every means in their power to prevent the granting of means to carry on the war and who mourned when we were victorious and rejoiced when we failed. Personal and private considerations, as regards the casting of a particular vote, we can make allowance for, but to steadily vote with a party who constantly and bitterly opposed them during the war, is to stultify themselves, to admit that the rebels were right, and they were wrong—and this we cannot believe they are prepared to do. Yet we warn such of our soldier-brethren as are affiliated with their enemies, that by remaining with the Democratic party they proclaim that they were previously wrong, and their very children, who with proper training would honor them as patriots, will look upon them with contempt as the tools of a tyrant and the murderers of a brave but unfortunate people. The man who wilfully participates in a war without believing that justice is on the side he supports, is a murderer in the sight of the Almighty, and no excuse can he framed for himself that will silence the voice of conscience. We do not envy such of our comrades as vote the Democratic ticket, from principle, their reflections on their past conduct. To the rest we would say that if the principles they fought for were right then, they are right now, and we haven't been in service long enough yet, to learn the art of Desertion.

We were dissapointed in getting certain data relative to the history of the "McGarrahan claim" and consequently must defer any allusion to it to another time.

Truly yours,
KAPPA.

For the Republican.

Gubernatorial---Nominating Conventions.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

The organization of political parties are such that a large majority of voters have no will in the nomination of men, by parties, for high and responsible public positions. None know this fact better than party managers who have been in the habit of making all the prominent party nominations without asking or receiving the advice or consent of one member out of ten of their party. This has always been the case in the Democratic party.

As an original member of the Republican party, we have seen this evil increasing every year since the advent of our party to supremacy in the State and nation. Our party managers have frequently placed men in high official positions, who, through their ignorance and dishonesty, have injured the country and the party more than it were possible for the combined efforts of their opponents to do. The honest and reflecting members of the Republican party have, for years past, frequently stifled their honest convictions, and voted party nominations under protest, because we considered the nationality of our country in danger.—That danger is now past, and we demand of our party managers, good, honest and capable nominees. If this demand is not acceded to, the time is not far distant when the Republican party will be numbered among the things of the past.

In order to secure good nominees, honest representative delegates should be selected to our conventions, untrammelled with instructions for this or that individual, by party managers, and then honest men would stand a good chance for Gubernatorial nominations.

The thinking and reflecting Republicans, all over the State, ask of the coming Gubernatorial State Convention, the nomination for Governor, of a citizen with a first-class reputation, for our party will need all the votes they can get to elect their nominee.—The signs of the times already indicate a sharp and close conflict, and unless we have a good standard-bearer our defeat is problematical.

Among the names that will be presented to our State Convention for Gubernatorial honors, none stand higher in the esteem of the rank and file of our party, than that of Maj. General John F. Hartranft, who has been well tried on many a hard contested battle-field, and in the civil service of his country, and on all occasions proved himself superior to every emergency, coming out of every contest with the unsullied reputation, that no illegal gains ever sullied the palms of his hands. The people ask his nomination, or a man of his character, and our party managers will do well to heed their wishes. The people like to honor such men because they never prove false to the trust confided to them.

Thanking you, Messrs. Editors, for inserting this in your very valuable paper, I remain,

PHILO.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their troubles never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Set down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "nasty, horrid man,"
And if he "did'nt change his ways,'
She'd "go right home to 'mam.'"

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He thought the matter o'er;
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an "Our Old Home."

Now his wife is every smilling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling,"
For he's bought an "Our Old Home."

Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an 'Our Old Home.'"

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper-books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that the time for holding the Sunday School Convention has been changed from the 18th, 19th and 20th, to the 25th, 26th and 27th of June next. We hope all persons interested in the Sabbath Schools will observe the change, and make their arrangements to be present at the convention.

At a meeting of the Presbyterian Congregation of Bellefonte, held in the Court House, on Monday last, for the purpose of choosing a pastor, a unanimous call was extended to the Rev. G C. Carnahan, of Danville, to become their pastor. It is hoped that Mr. Carnahan will accept this call, as he has made a very favorable impression here, and is a man of decided talent and ability. We think the congregation were wise in not delaying the choice of a pastor any longer.

HORSE THIEVES AGAIN.—We learn that a horse was stolen from the stable of Mr. Wm. Hays, of Mill Hall, Clinton co., on Saturday night last. Mr. Hays, getting track of the thief, pursued him to Nittany Hall, this county, and there captured him; but, failing to have the proper warrant, could not hold him. Leaving him to be watched by supposed friends, he rode to Hublersburg for a warrant, but, in the mean time, said admirer of horse flesh "vamoosed the ranch," since which time Hays has heard of neither horse nor thief. Sharp thief, that.

ACCIDENT.—A melancholy accident occurred at Lock Haven, on Saturday evening last, resulting in the death of a Mrs. Anthony, and serious personal injury to a Mrs. Barnes, two very estimable ladies of the town. The circumstances were as follow: Dr. Lichtenthaler, who delights in driving fast horses, while driving at a furious rate down Main street, ran over the above named ladies as they were attempting to pass a crossing, causing serious injury, from the effects of which the former died the same night, and the latter lies in a critical condition. The Doctor has been taken into custody. We hope this sad affair may be a warning to others we know of, who delight in fast driving.

AMUSEMENTS.—Maxwell's celebrated Dramatic Troupe, which has been in our midst for the last week is, we are informed, about to take their departure for a time. Without one exception, we regard this the best troupe that has ever visited our city, and their performances equal, if not superior, to any we have ever witnessed here, or elsewhere. There is nothing in the character of their performances that could shock the sensibilities of the most fastidious lady in this, or any other community they may hereafter favor with their presence. We have neither time nor space to do them justice, but wherever they may go, we bespeak for them the undivided support of all theatre-going and fun-loving people.

FOR SALE.—An excellent Virginia farm, of nearly 400 acres, well watered, with nearly 300 acres cleared, well improved, and well timbered, situate on the South Side Railroad, between Petersb'g and Lynchburg, in a good neighborhood, is offered for sale, very cheap. Twenty acres, well suited to a good mechanic of any kind, who desires a first-class location for a country trade, lying on one side of the railroad, will be sold separately, and the balance divided into two goods farms, and sold separately, or together, if desired. There is a good new dwelling, and good buildings on the farm Plenty of good fruit, and the whole property in excellent condition. Either portion, or the whole, will be sold to suit purchasers. Peter Hoffer, Esq., of Centre Hall, is acquainted with this property, and will give information to purchasers. Title perfect. Price $10 per acre for the whole tract. Apply to the REPUBLICAN for further information.

THE BROCKERHOFF HOUSE.—It is with pleasure we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Houseal & Krom, the gentlemanly proprietors of the Brokerhoff House, Bellefonte, Pa. The Brockerhoff House is a building, erected by Hon. Henry Brockerhoff, in 1866, and stands, to-day, as a monument of the enterprise and progressive spirit of that gentleman, one of our oldest, as well as most respectable and wealthy citizens. Messrs. Houseal & Krom have had charge of the hotel for nearly two years, during all of which time they have conducted their house in strict conformity with law and good taste, and have labored assiduously to make their boarders, strangers and travellers comfortable and happy. The Brockerhoff House is not only one of the largest hotels in the State, but one of the best; and we feel safe in saying that two more genial and whole-souled men, than Houseal & Krom, cannot be found anywhere. They understand their business; they take pride in making their guests perfectly comfortable, and their rates are reasonable. From its erection, to the present time, Bellefonte has looked with pride upon this house, not only as an honor to its builder, and a credit to the proprietors of the hotel, but an ornament to the town, and a monument of the enterprise of our citizens.

THE ladies of Bellefonte and vicinity are respectfully invited to call and examine the large assortment of dry goods, received by Howell, Gilliland & Co., rooms No. 1 and 2, Bush's Arcade.

A CURIOUS OFFER.—Dr. Sage has discovered a perfect specific for Catarrh "Cold in the Head," Dizziness, Tainted Breath and Catarrhal Headache. The proprietor, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., offers $500 for a case of Catarrh that he cannot cure. It is the cheapest and best remedy for that loathsome disease ever offered to the public. Don't be put off by your druggist with some miserable substitute. If he has not got Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for sale, let him order it, or send sixty cents to the proprietor, and it will reach you by return mail.

For sale by most Druggists everywhere. 2t.

MERCHANT TAILOR.—In another column of the REPUBLICAN will be seen the advertisement of Wm. S. Tripple, merchant tailor, up stairs, in Bush's Arcade building, Bellefonte, Pa. Mr Tripple, we are happy to state, has a splendid stock of goods, and is one of the very best tailors in Central Pennsylvania. He is prepared to sell the cloth and make it up for all who favor him with their custom. He is also prepared to make full suits, or parts of suits, for all those who may see proper to purchase the goods from other establishments. He is a first class workman, warrants his work, makes neat fits, and, best of all, is a strictly honest man. We hope our patrons, and the people generally, will patronize him.

As we never see a woman but we mentally bless Adam for going to sleep and losing a rib, and hence are always on the look-out to please them, we publish the following recipe for keeping the skin clear and beautiful. We don't mean to insinuate that there are any girls about here who haven't the loveliest, peachiest faces in the world; not at all! But they, or some of their acquaintances, may happen to go to a pic nic or Fourth of July this summer, and get a little tanned, and then the receipe will come so handy.—Cut it out and paste it on your looking glass: "Tan may be removed from the face by mixing magnesia in soft water to the consistency of paste, which should then be spread on the face and allowed to remain a minute or two. Then wash off with castile soap-suds, and rinse with soft water."

THE NEW CURRENCY.—Collectors of specimens of money will now do well to save a clean piece of each kind of fractional currency, as it is all to be called in and no more used. The new series will be entirely different, and the same is true of all the greenbacks that are to be issued hereafter. The quality of the paper is to be changed, and the new style is now in process of manufacture under government supervision It is thought to be impossible to counterfeit the currency that is to succeed that now in use. New and different presses will be used in printing, and a part of the work will be done in some other city than Washington. The disagreeable parts of the work which have made the Treasury Department a factory, will be banished to other quarters. All the people who have been at work in this bureau, have been furloughed until the middle of next month, when the operations will begin again.

SPRING DISEASE.—Reader, have you a mite, one solitary atom of common sense? If you have, be persuaded to make a healthful use of it, and commence on the instant. As soon as spring begins to set in, almost everybody has, more or less, a feeling of lassitude; there is less disposition to exercise; some are so indisposed that they have to keep in the house, and numbers take to their bed. All this is your own fault. It's because you have got no sense, not a particle, or, if you have, you do not make use of it. You can readily understand that now, as the weather is warmer, you do not require as much fire in the house; and may be you are wondering why the servants will persist in making the house hotter now than in the depth of winter; they are only burning as much fuel now as in midwinter, and they have not the sense to know this, or, at least, they do not care to think. The human body is a house to be kept warm; and to be in health, its heat must be maintained at the same temperature the year round—that is, about ninety-six degrees. The stomach is, in a sense, the furnace; the food put into it, the fuel; the lungs set it on fire. Why, then, do you eat in warm weather, as much as in cold weather? On a spring day, when scarcely any fire is needed in the house, you cram as much fuel into your stomach as in the depth of winter, You see now that you have not as much sense as Biddy; she is only trying to burn up your house, you are trying to burn yourself up with fever. A baby not three months old has too much sense to poke its little finger into the candle twice; yet you are poking your whole gluttonous hulk, head foremost, every day, into the furnace, and yet actually don't know what hurts you. You don't think, or, if you do, they are such diluted, milk-and-water "thinks," that a dime a load would be a bad bargain to the purchaser.

In adult life, all the food that we eat, serves two purposes; it sustains and keeps warm. For the latter object, meats, oils, butter, gravies and sweets are used; hence, in warm weather a comparatively small amount of these things should be eaten; but in their place take bread, fruit, vegetables, melons and berries. Nature's instincts call loudly for the acids of berries and fruits, and for the earliest tender vegetable, the "greens" and the salads of our gardeners. It is because they have no heating qualities; they are rather "cooling" in their nature. They who spend much of their time indoors, would enjoy an exemption from a great many bodily discomforts if, upon the first day of spring, they would begin to have meat for only one meal in the day, and in lessening quantities as the summer comes on.—Harrisb'g Tel.

THE HOG LAW.—Unless the people of this flourishing young city make up their minds to observe the hog law, we will be compelled to devote a column to hogs.—This is a free country; nevertheless, no man has a right to let his hogs run loose contrary to law. No man has any right to keep hogs, or other property, to annoy his neighbors. We have heard several of our best citizens say; that if those owning hogs in town did not keep them penned up, or if the High Constable did not attend to his business, and enforce the law against all hogs, that there will be several of the porcine species found dead, and that before long. Pen up your hogs.

THE BUSH HOUSE.—There was a gay and festive time at the Bush House on last Saturday. Our town was completely taken by surprise, by a party from Lock Haven, consisting of 75 or 100 couples. Unannounced, they arrived in town, for the purpose, as they said, of "warming the Bush House," and having a good time generally. We have known, for a long time, that Lock Haven, for a small country town, a little black spot on the map, was rather an enterprising and spirited place, the home of a great number of wealthy and respectable people, and containing some few, celebrated for their literary and legal attainments; but we had no idea of the number of pretty girls and women who are staying there for the present, until we had the extreme pleasure of meeting them at the Bush House, in our own romantic city, on Saturday last. The delegation was headed by Hon. L. A. Mackey and lady. Hon C. A Mayer, Judge Parsons and lady, Mr. Harvey, and one or two more of the best lawyers of the Clinton county bar, the balance of the delegation comprising the elite of Lock Haven, should have had the pleasure of seeing their names in print, but for the very singular reason that these most interested neglected to hand us a list of the names in time for our paper. We are sorry that it is so, and we do not understand why it is so. If there is any under-handed work in the withholding of this list, the regular proceedings, toasts, &c., from us, we will ventilate the guilty party, or parties, most effectually.

We have said that the visit of our Lock Haven friends was a surprise to our citizens. Not so, however, to Mr. Bigony, the gentlemanly caterer of the Bush House. He understands his business perfectly, and cannot be taken by surprise. He had but three hours, at most, to prepare for this respectable body of men and beautiful women. But at 4 o'clock, precisely, the dinner was ready, and the guests were seated, and such a dinner! Every thing that the appetite could wish, or the heart desire, was there, and ample justice was done this magnificent dinner by the whole delegation.—Indeed, judging from the way L. A. Mackey enjoyed the dinner, and from the supply he laid into his capacious stomach, you would have thought that Lock Haven was a starved place, indeed, and that he had not eaten anything for many weeks. His Honor, Judge Mayer, was not quite so rapacious, from the fact that he had been holding court here for the two weeks previous, boarding at the Bush House, living on the fat of the land. We sat right opposite these gentlemen, and we, therefore, speak what we know, when we assert, that any stranger standing back and looking on, would have sworn, judging from the three men, that L. A. Mackey, President of the First National Bank of Lock Haven, was the man who ate the sixteen apple dumplings, and we confess we are inclined to this belief, and are really glad that the problem is solved. What a blessed thing it is to have a capacious stomach, good health, plenty of money and a clear conscience. The Bush House is the place for all such people, and we would here suggest that whenever our Lock Haven friends get hungry again, that they get up another excursion to the Bush house.

After dinner, several toasts, each in order, were offered by our talented friend, Wm P. Fury, a native of our own glorious old Centre county, but now the "carpet-bag" Editor of the Clinton Democrat. The toasts were well gotten up, and very appropriate. The first called out Hon. L. A. Mackey, the second Hon. C. A. Mayer, who shifted the responsibility of a reply upon Judge Parsons.—Mr. Mackey and Judge Mayer made neat speeches; but Judge Parsons spoke in his own felicitous style, doing ample justice to, as he said, "our own Lock Haven." Several other gentlemen made neat and appropriate speeches, but for the reason above stated, we are unable to give a full report. We depended on other parties to do it. They have failed to come to time.

One word for the Bush House. It is a very large and commodious building. It is second to no hotel in the State, outside our large cities. For good furniture, it is equal to the Herdic House, and far surpasses it in its accommodations, its culinary and other departments. It is the intention of D. G. Bush to make it the most justly celebrated hotel, and summer resort, in the State. And he will do it.

On Tuesday, May 4, inst., the School Directors of Centre county assembled in convention at Bellefonte, and elected a County Superintendent.

That sapient assemblage, no doubt, congratulated themselves in the fact that the result of their action in making the choice they did, is one great stride in the advancement of the educational interests of the county, and will do much to elevate both the moral and literary standard of our common schools. The result of this election was as successful a trick as that of three years ago, perpetrated by the same parties, and exulted over in the same manner. It is true, the fact of a man being able to so manipulate the intelligent, yea, learned body of men (a spectator at the convention could term them nothing else) who composed our school boards, generally, in the county, so as to secure the undivided support of all that intelligent body who dance to the same political tune he fiddles, simply because they do so; and also to secure the support of a small portion (tolerably respectable number, though) of that knowing body, simply because they do not dance to the same political tune he fiddles. But is that the only cause? We believe some had a small pittance advanced, it is said, to pay travelling expenses, and, it is fair to presume, they thought their votes were worth that amount, at least, deserves some merit, and ought to be elevated to prominent and responsible positions, even if by the votes of those who differ from him politically, and are now willing to admit them selves the dupes of political cunning and duplicity.

The manner in which the recent campaign for the County Superintendency was conducted, on the part of the Democracy, is a very satisfactory showing, that the superior qualifications, essentially necessary to entitle a man to place, however responsible, is to be a Democrat—which cures all other imperfections in the eyes of the Democracy. It is also a lesson which Republicans should heed, and profit thereby, preparing, in time, for future elections, by electing full Republican boards, in every Republican township and borough in the county, without exception, and elect men for directors who feel a sufficient interest in the cause of education, and possess public spirit enough to discharge their duties by coming out on all occasions of as much public importance as that of the selecting of a County Superintendent, and men who will not barter their vote for the pittance it might cost them to ride ten or twelve miles on the cars, and who are not so parsimonious and niggardly as to consider the small expense, and the loss of a day from the farm or shop, as of infinitely greater value, than the education of their own children.

Then let us be prepared in the future for every emergency, by having good and reliable Republican directors elected, and although we don't think that the political complexion of a candidate, especially for the Superintendent of Common Schools, ought to entirely control a body of fair and intelligent men in their choice; and yet, when we know there is a part (known by the name of Democracy) that will sacrifice almost everything for party, regardless of consequences, and will even go so far as to demand that a Minister of the Gospel, before he is entitled to belief or support, must be of their political hue and texture, if even to the jeopardizing of his own soul, we must be prepared to meet them on all grounds, and especially, political, as the question here may well be considered in that light, the Democracy, by a low cunning, having secured the election of one of them, purely on political considerations, three years ago, and also on Tuesday, the 4th inst., have forced it upon us, and we will "fight it out on that line."

A large majority of the townships and boroughs in the county are Republican, and, with a little effort, we can have Republican boards in each, that will not suffer themselves to be imposed upon by the honied phrases and misrepresentations of the candidate, or his political advisers, as was the case in the last election. Then, Republicans of Centre co., be on the alert, and elect your best men for School Directors. Men of progress—that, whenwe are again called on to elect a County Superintendent, we will be able to elect a man who is alive to the progressive interests of our public schools. REPORTER.

At a regular meeting of Potter's Mills Lodge No. 350, I. O. of G. T., held Ap'l 24, 1869, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from us our beloved brother, G. C. Cadwallader, whose many virtues endeared him to our Lodge, and social circle, by such ties as are broken only by death. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That Potter's Mills Lodge has suffered an irreparable loss, which fills our hearts with sadness and gloom. We can never forget his genial smile, cheering words, manly actions and unswerving integrity. As a co-laborer with us in the cause of temperance, he was zealous and faithful. It was, indeed, to him, a work of love.

Resolved, That whilst we are pained that one so young should be stricken down by the fell destroyer, we are yet encouraged to believe that our dear brother has only been removed to the vineyard of the Lord. His last feeble utterances assured us that he has already joined that innumerable company that sing the song of Moses and the Lamb. His sweet voice shall never more be raised with ours in Potter's Mills Lodge. He has gone to the Grand Lodge Room above, to unite in the anthem of the blood-washed throng.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved father, mother, sisters and brother, and affectionately pray them to be comforted. We mourn with them, knowing how great is their loss; yet, who shall measure his eternal gain. He has indeed entered upon that abiding rest that remaineth for the people of God.

Resolved, That this Lodge wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and a copy of these resolutions be sent to his afflicted friends, and published in the Bellefonte Republican and Watchman, and the Keystone Good Templar.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, May 12, '69.

From the Country Gentleman.

HINTS FOR GARDEN PREPARATION.—One of the first things to be considered in the choice of a garden plot, is exposure. This is of far more importance than its size or external appearance. If there is a chance for choice, select by all means a plot with a gentle slope towards the sun at its meridian. An exposure toward the midday sun is as good as being several degrees farther south. Where a garden lies away from the sun, the hoar frost will sometimes remain nearly all day, which should be melted off in an hour. On no account should a house, wall or trees, prevent the full rays of the sun; for even in winter, the ground, as well as the few remaining vegetables, is greatly benefited by it.

The soil of the garden is next in importance. No trouble should be considered too great to bring it into good condition. The soil should be deep, rich and easily penetrated. If shallow it should be trenched; if stiff and clayey, sand and vegetable manure should be mixed in. If too sandy already, alter it with slough soil. No garden can be conducted with the least degree of satisfaction without a thorough manureing. There is truth in an old English saying—"Hunger a garden, and it will hunger you." Composts from old pastures, brick earth, decayed leaves, and lime rubbish, are all excellent in their place.

The soil should be thoroughly pulverized. Every spadeful as it is turned up, should be dashed down, that no hard lumps come against a tender root. Every particle of dirt should be made to do its duty in feeding the plants; therefore every stone should be removed, if no bigger than a marble. If it is a small gargen, and the gardener have leisure, a very nice method is to put every spadeful thr'o a large coarse sieve.

The same kind of vegetables shl'd not be planted in exactly the same spot from season to season, if you desire an abundant increase and freedom from insects. Fine sand and coal cinders, also salt, are good remedies for many infesting insects. Coal cinders scattered upon the walks or paths intersecting garden beds, are excellent to keep down weeds, grass and worms.

If you have an ailing son or daughter, by all means prepare a nice garden plot and set them to work in it this spring. I know of nothing that will induce finer spirits or better health. Animate them with good tools and some nice work on gardening, and see if the roses do not grow.

Pruning.

Between the first of March and the first of May is a period during which a great deal of heavy pruning is performed in the orchards of New England. Universal custom, however, in this respect, as sometimes elsewhere, is at variance with what is the best practice; for it is a well established theory that none but absolutely necessary pruning ought to be undertaken so late toward or into the spring that the wounds made thereby will bleed. This bleeding exhausts the energies of a tree, and the wounds where it takes place rarely heal over satisfactorily. A penknife is strong enough for any pruning where trees are properly cared for. Heavy pruning, made necessary by neglect, as is too often the case, may be best performed—all things considered—during the six weeks preceding December 1; but cautiously always when the wood is frozen. Light pruning is most satisfactory in its results when done in the latter part of June. The heading in of a tree transplanted in the spring is justifiable, because the diminished root of the tree cannot always sustain the quantity of wood which it could have sustained had the tree not been removed. Wounds of an inch or more in diameter made in pruning ought to be pared smooth, and then covered with something to protect them from the weather. Gum-shellac dissolved in alcohol to the consistency of molasses, coal tar, grafting-wax, common house paint, all answer a good purpose, the latter being perhaps preferable to any of the others. Where paint is used, by throwing a little dry sand or loam upon it while fresh, the coating and its color are both improved.—Worcester Spy.

HOW ONE ORCHARD IS TREATED.—I know of an orchard, near by me, which has not failed to produce an average crop for the past ten years. It has been treated as follows:—Early each spring it has been well covered with long manure. About the middle of June it is passed over lightly with a gang plow. Hogs are kept in until about the first of September. Then it is liberally dragged with a fine toothed harrow. The pruning is done mainly in summer by rubbing off such shoots as are not wanted, thereby saving the labor of the saw and the hatchet. Each year, in June, the trees are scraped and generously washed with weak lye from wood ashes. The worms are promptly destroyed on their first appearance. The above treatment is neither expensive or laborious, but it will pay.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

CABBAGE plants should be set out as soon as spring fairly begins. Make a hole in the ground with a pointed stick, pour in liquid manure, then put in the plant, and press the ground close around it. Treated in this way, cabbage plants never fail to grow.

TO KEEP FOWLS HEALTHY.—The way I keep my fowls in health, I clean out the house once a week put wood ashes under the roosts; have iron basins for them to drink from; whitewash inside of the hen house with hot lime; put a little kerosene oil on the roosts once a month. The main food is oats, and cake of scraps to pick on. I never feed but once a day—at noon, when I shut them up at four or five P. M. When they run out then give them all they will eat. In my experience, there is no way to get diseased fowls easier than to keep them stuffed; it makes them lazy, and they won't work as much as they ought to keep them in a healthy condition.

I never had any gapes in chickens, When any fowl begins to droop, I give three large pills of common hard, yellow soap; 'tis the best thing to cleanse a fowl I know of. I follow it for three days, give them nothing to eat and plenty of pure water to drink. In desperate cases, give a half teaspoonful of tincture of lobelia. It will seldom, if ever, fail of curing. It is a very cleansing and powerful medicine for fowls.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

WATERMELONS.—"J. N. G.," Burlington Co., N. J., writes: "It takes no small amount of work to raise good watermelons, and to have a good crop at the same time, that will pay. First, the ground should be well plowed, and hills made about eight feet apart each way, one foot square, and about ten inches deep. Each hill should be filled with well composted manure, and trodden solid before finishing. Plant from eight to ten seeds to each hill, and cover lightly with a hoe. When the fourth leaf has formed, thin out to one or two to each hill; one is better than half a dozen, but it is better to leave more, until they get well started, as one may get destroyed. When the vines commence to run, the hills should be well trodden down again around the vine. The plants will require frequent "farming," or cultivating until the fruit commences to set, when they should not be moved. With plenty of manure, and some guano or bone dust, a light, sandy soil, (which is the best) and good cultivation, there will be a large crop. I have seen the ground nearly covered with melons, some weighing from 30 to 40 pounds."

SELLING STRAW TO PAPER MILLS.—"S. D. S," Hagerstown, Md. The policy or impolicy of doing this depends on circumstances. Straw is worth about $3,00 a ton for manure. If you can get from $5,00 to $10,00 per ton, on the farm, as we can in the neighborhood of the writer, it will of course pay much better to sell it than to rot it down for manure. Instead of selling all the straw, the better plan would be to sell half of it, and buy oil-cake with the money, and feed it out to the stock with the remaining half, on the farm. And what you make on the stock, buy guano with the money. In this way you can sell the straw with great advantage to the farm, and ultimately to yourself.

A PRACTICLE farmer writes:

"In my observations for twenty years in the practicle application of manure, I am convinced that what is ordinarily termed "mulching," or the application of thoroughly decomposed barnyard manure to the surface, is the most economical use of this class of fertilizers. From this experience I am convinced that one cord of manure applied on wheat-ground at the time of sowing, or on the ground intended for corn in the late autumn, or applied to all varieties of large or small fruits, is worth three cords plowed or dug under to a depth of eight inches."

THE Des Moines (Iowa) Register declares most solemnly that a farmer near town told him he recently killed one of his choice hens and devoted her to table purposes because she wouldn't produce eggs. Upon dressing her, eighteen eggs were found, seven of them with hard shells and of full size. She was probably waiting for the repeal of the tenure of office act, so she could lay on without any one asking why she did so.

COWS pine for fresh grass, and they may be turned into swampy land or bog meadows when the bog grass springs green and tender. This is the only time of the year when they will eat it. Cattle must not go upon the summer pastures too early, for they will do great damage to the crop of feed. Manage, if possible, to make the roots last until the pastures are fit to turn the cattle upon.

TOMATOES.—Put out the plants when safe to do so, three or four feet apart, according to the variety. In gardens, some kind of a trellis or support for the vines adds to neatness, and improves the fruit.

MULCH around young trees before the dry weather comes on. Bog hay, or, near the coast, salt hay, is generally the most available. If a mulch is not applied, keep the soil mellow by frequent stirring.

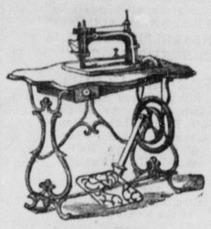
YOUNG trees should have the soil kept clean and mellow about them from the start. Root crops, which are well manured, and require thorough cultivation, may be grown between the rows.

THE Ohio Farmer asserts that nine-tenths of the foot and ancle ailments of the horse are traceable to standing on dry plank floors.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far i advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

All manner of work such as Scroll Sawing, Moulding, Brackets, &c., &c., made after any desired pattern.

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

This company is composed of practicable mechanics, and Samuel Adams, one of the Co., has been foreman of the Bellefonte Planing Mill since its commencement.

Connected with the mill, and in operation at all times, is one of the latest improved

COKE DRYING KILNS;

which leaves the lumber in a perfectly healthy state, assists in preserving it, and in fact adds to its lasting qualities, while other methods of drying deteriorate, and renders it more liable

TO DECAY AND WASTE.

Lumber dried in a Coke klin, is dried perfectly, and when worked and put up, will not

AGENTS WANTED.

TO THE WORKING CLASS.—I am now prepared to furnish all classes with constant employment at their homes, the whole of the time, or for the spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Fifty cents to $5 per evening, is easily earned by persons of either sex, and the boys and girls earn nearly as much as men.—Great inducements are offered those who will devote their whole time to the business; and that every person who sees this notice, may send me their address and test the business for themselves, I make the following unparalleled offer; To all who are not well satisfied with the business, I will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing to me. Full particulars, directions, &c., sent free. Sample sent by mail for ten cents. Address,

LIBERAL INDUCEMENTS OFFERED TO GOOD MEN TO SELL MACHINES.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE,

THE FARMERS PRIDE,

THE STUMP & GRUBBING MACHINE.

It will do more work in one day than Ten Men with grubbing hoes can possibly do, and leaves no roots or stumps to sprout up in the spring. After grubbing with this Machine the farmer can cut his grain or grass the first season with the Reaper or Mower.

It does its work effectually. Any person or persons desirous of making money, will do well to
